NAB Applauds FCC's HD Radio Power Increase Ruling

WASHINGTON -- The National Association of Broadcasters today issued a statement applauding the Federal Communications Commission for adopting new rules that allow radio stations to voluntarily increase their HD Radio power level.

"Today's ruling will result in greatly improved indoor reception for HD Radio listeners and greater service reliability for portable HD Radio devices," said NAB Executive Vice President Dennis Wharton. "Broadcasters salute the FCC for taking this important step, which will allow free and local radio stations to better serve communities across America."
